A keen researcher and analyst, Paul Rozenberg utilizes his strong command of legislative and regulatory matters to uncover valuable insights and develop thoughtful solutions to challenges that impact our clients' interests. As part of his policy work, Paul brings clarity and understanding to clients on various legal and business issues. He also advocates before legislative and regulatory bodies to ensure our clients' business interests are protected.

Paul is skilled at supporting clients through complex governmental processes and providing guidance on election law, campaign finance, pay-to-play compliance, government procurement and non-profit management. In addition to his work as a private-practice attorney, he previously served as an aide and legal analyst to former New Jersey Governor Chris Christie, where he provided sound legal counsel on a variety of issues.
