OVERVIEW

Carson Lane is a member of the firm's Trial and Litigation Group and handles a wide variety of commercial and tort litigation in state and federal courts. Her practice includes cases involving complex commercial litigation, product liability, medical malpractice defense, and appeals. In addition, Carson regularly writes about class action issues and how they impact particular cases.

Carson attended law school at Wake Forest University School of Law, where she served as an editor of the Wake Forest Journal of Business & Intellectual Property Law. She also completed externships with the in-house legal department at HanesBrands, with Judge Mark Davis of the North Carolina Court of Appeals, and with the United States Attorney's Office for the Western District of North Carolina.

Carson provided over 100 hours of pro bono legal services as a law student and was a member of Wake Forest University Law School's Pro Bono Honor Society where she served as the Project Coordinator for the University's Immigration and Naturalization Pro Bono Project.

Prior to entering law school, Carson attended the University of South Carolina as a Capstone Scholar with a double-major in Economics and Spanish and a minor in Business Administration.

In her free time, Carson enjoys hiking, travel, and serving as a volunteer mentor with Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Triangle.
