Norman D. Sloan practices real property law, representing individuals and companies active in the real estate industry. Norm's real property practice encompasses the acquisition, financing, operation, and disposition of all types of real property throughout the United States. Norm has represented numerous foreign investors from Europe and East Asia in regard to their U.S. real property activities, as well as U.S. and European banks and lending institutions in their U.S. real property lending transactions.

Norm has had extensive experience in the reorganization of financially distressed real estate companies and properties. In addition to his real property practice, he has represented clients in the acquisition, operation, and disposition of privately held companies engaged in a broad spectrum of financial, service, manufacturing, and distribution activities.

Norm is a member of the Board of Directors and chairman of the investment committee of JINSA (Jewish Institute for National Security of America), a Washington, D.C.-based organization dedicated to assisting congressional, military, and civilian decision makers on American defense and strategic interests, primarily in the Middle East. He also serves as pro bono legal counsel to the Israel Air Force Center Foundation. Norm served in the United States Air Force and the California Air National Guard (1969-1975).
