Overview

Eric Novetsky is the head of our Small Business Administration and Government-Backed Lending practices, working within our Finance and Insolvency & Reorganization practice groups. He specializes in the representation of lenders and borrowers in non-traditional commercial loan transactions, including bridge, government-backed and asset-based financing, as well as the representation of creditors, creditors' committees, and corporate debtors in bankruptcy proceedings. Incorporating an extensive background in supply chain management and automotive manufacturing, Eric also works with clients to negotiate and document supply/purchase/customer contracts and to identify and resolve issues arising within customer/supplier agreements and relationships.

Prior to joining Jaffe, Eric specialized in procurement, international logistics, foreign trade, customs, and materials management at DaimlerChrysler, Eaton Corporation, and John Deere.
