Overview

Mark Cooper is an attorney in our Litigation & Dispute Resolution, Construction & Development, and Insurance practice groups. He is also a member of our Board of Directors and serves as the Firm's Risk Management Counsel.

Mark specializes in commercial and general liability matters that include construction defect, development and contract issues, real estate litigation, business torts, and contract disputes, professional liability, and all aspects of insurance coverage, for both insurer and policyholders, including comprehensive opinion recommendations. He also focuses on overall client risk management consultation and has extensive experience defending general liability matters.

A trained mediator, Mark regularly litigates, tries and arbitrates complex disputes nationwide. He has considerable first-chair experience in all facets of litigation, including numerous trials, arbitrations and other methods of alternative dispute resolution. He provides overall risk management and insurance-related consulting services to businesses in varied industries throughout the country.

Significant Matters

Mark administers overall risk management and insurance programs for publicly-traded owner and operator of manufactured home and recreational vehicle resorts throughout North America. He manages a team that analyzes and resolves general liability claims throughout the U.S. and Canada on a daily basis, litigates and coordinates the defense of such cases in many states, and manages the company's overall property and general liability program.
