BET THE COMPANY LITIGATION

Jimerson Birr provides steady counsel to businesses and individuals in matters where the survival of the company or an individual's career of hard work hangs in the balance. Clients of Jimerson Birr's "bet the company" litigation services are apt to acknowledge that a hallmark of our practice is executing a well-designed plan honed from the outset and focused on successfully trying each case that does not amicably resolve short of trial. By employing a trial-ready style, analyzing from a business-oriented approach, and examining cases from unorthodox viewpoints, we achieve favorable results for our clients. In the most complicated, high-pressure, high-stakes situations, we leverage our exceptional intuition, experience, creativity, and resolve to give our clients a critical edge.

There are times when businesses or people are faced with the fight of their lives; situations where there is no alternative beyond going to court and prevailing. Whether by choice, or if you were left with no choice, in those times where litigation looms heavy and a viable future depends upon victory, clients should not go to trial with inexperienced attorneys. Our "bet the company" attorneys are seasoned trial veterans who know how to run a case efficiently and present a winning argument. Jimerson Birr lawyers understand how to manage the pressure associated with leading numerous expert witnesses and attorneys, conducting complicated damage determinations, distilling complex governing laws, overcoming discovery problems, and many other civil procedure or substantive issues associated with high-stakes litigation. Then it comes to the courtroom, we are just as comfortable before a jury as we are with motions, pleadings, and briefs. We enjoy taking cases to trial, and our adversaries know this. The fact that we are willing to try cases often gives our lawyers a key edge in settlement negotiations.

"Bet the company" litigation is often highly complex and presents unique challenges. Each matter inevitably requires an in-depth analysis of risk and reward, complex discovery processing capabilities, multi-disciplinary litigation team management, and resiliency to overcome multi-party, multi-pronged attacks.
