

LITIGATION

Litigation is sometimes unavoidable and often quite complex. When the need for litigation arises, you want an experienced attorney at your side. Our litigation team includes a niche focus on estate and trust litigation, while also handling general, business, employment, real estate, construction, and bankruptcy litigation, as well as various other matters. When a lawsuit is at hand, Williams Parker's attorneys understand what is at stake and relentlessly seek the most satisfactory outcomes for you.

Williams Parker provides clients the dedication, attention and service of a boutique firm, while also affording the experience and resources of a large firm. We represent banks, trust companies, business entities, public institutions, private enterprises, charitable organizations, physicians, developers, and private individuals. From general litigation to litigation in highly specialized areas of law, Williams Parker counsels and guides clients through pre-litigation, administrative proceedings, mediations, arbitrations, trial, post-trial, and the totality of the litigation process.

Our trust and estate litigators are skilled in the unique rules and procedures that apply when estate and trust administrations are challenged and are supported by our sophisticated estate-planning department. We work with fiduciaries, beneficiaries, and other interested parties in matters involving trusts and wills, accounting actions, breach of fiduciary duty claims, reformation suits, estate and trust administration disputes, as well as other fiduciary litigation. Many involve complicated family relationships and sensitive issues. We understand the sensitive nature of these matters and work closely with our clients to navigate the practical, economic, and emotional obstacles that inevitably surface during these disputes.

Williams Parker's litigation attorneys understand what matters to you. Our founder, JJ Williams Jr., famously always answered his door wearing a suit, even on the weekends. That same desire to serve our clients guides us today as much as it did in 1925. After nearly 100 years of serving our clients, at Williams Parker, our history speaks for itself.
